Friockheim Park Community Volunteers is a small community group who host an accredited information point with Visit Scotland (iKnow).

Our community building acts as a meeting place for the public, visitors and our volunteers who carry out works at Friockheim Park, the public toilets and in and around the village. The building dates back to its original brickwork.

Come and enjoy a behind the scenes tour of the community building, usually only accessible to volunteers. Find out a bit more about what the group do, while speaking with our volunteers and board members.

You'll have the chance to ask any questions, have coffee and biscuits free of charge, while enjoying a nice talk about our local environment.
